

Please reconsider the elimination of competition in the broadcast world. Those of us who live in rural United States counties will be unable to maintain a variety of opinions unless we resort to the internet, which is not available to many people